Kimochi Cocktail Reception

The Consul General of Japan, Masato Watanabe, invited San Mateo JACL board members to a cocktail reception at his residence in San Francisco to celebrate the new endeavor of Kimochi San Mateo. It was announced that the Capital Campaign goal to cover construction and equipment was met and they will begin construction this April. There was an accomplished young pianist and delicious food.

Children's Day: Kodomo No Hi

Girl's Day or Hinamatsuri (Doll Festival) is celebrated on the third day of the third month (March 3). Boy's Day or Tango No Sekku (Beginning of Summer) is celebrated on the fifth day of the fifth month (May 5). The Japanese government changed to the name "Kodomo No Hi" to respect all children's personalities as well as to express gratitude towards their mother, celebrating both girls and boys day on May 5. The San Mateo JACL will host a craft celebration for Children's Day, Saturday, May 9 at the San Mateo Japanese American Community Center, 415 South Claremont, San Mateo, 94401, from 2-4pm. We will make cards using origami paper (iris folding) and Gytaku Fish Printing. We chose Iris folding as the prints are found in kimono and fabric designs to represent Japanese dolls and the Gytaku to represent fish's strength in swimming upstream as seen in the "koi no bori" flags.

Space is limited. Please reserve a spot by April 30, 2015. Diana Okamoto: 650-269-0934, dianaokamoto@gmail.com

Tanabata (Star Festival)

Long, long time ago, there was a weaver princess, ORIHIME, daughter of TEN-HOU, the god of the sky, who met KENGYU, a cow herder prince. They fell in love and spent all their time together, ignoring the cows and the gods' clothes. Eventually, the cows got sick and there was no more new cloth to make clothes. TEN-KOU, angered by this, banished them to the separate sides of the Milky Way, AMANOGAWA. Upon realizing that the love-struck couple could not work, he allowed to meet each other once a year on JULY 7, now called TANABATA, Star Festival. On this day, seventh day of the seventh month, people make wishes to the couple on colorful streamers and hang them from bamboo branches.
